Ferguson TEA-20 SUE

The Trans-Antarctic expedition.

Affectionately christened Sue, this TEA-20 was the lead vehicle among three slightly modified tractors in the Sir Edmund Hillary historical expedition to the South Pole which was successfully accomplished on 4th January 1958.

Equipped with special rubber tracks, the steering was locked and the change of direction was made possible by braking the appropriate rear wheel. Another modification was the fitting of a rudimentary cab out of tarpaulin to give the driver some protection from the wind and the cold. Heavy duty batteries were also fitted with simple wooden top covers.

These tractors were painted red to make them easier to spot in the snow and they were all given female names, no doubt to compensate for the lack of female company on this expedition.

Sir Hillary and his team were the first people to drive to the South Pole and to cover more than 1 200 mi (2 000 km).
They achieved this distinction with three Ferguson TEA-20s.

Sue was eventually returned to Coventry in 1965 and is now on display in the Massey Ferguson Technology Centre in Beauvais, France.
